Republicans Attention.

At the meeting of the Clarke County Republican Central Committee, held at Vancouver, August 19th, 1889, it was decided to hold the primary meeting on Saturday, August 24th, at 2 o'clock, p. m., and the County Convention on Saturday, August 25th, at 10 o'clock, a. m., at the Court House in Vancouver, to nominate delegates to the Territorial Convention, and to nominate such officers as are required by the new Constitution. All Republicans are earnestly requested to attend the primaries.

Delegates not attending the Convention are requested to give proxies only to delegates of their own precinct, as by resolution of Territorial and County Conventions this has been made a rule.

SCOTT SWELLAND, Chairman.

Judge David S. Terry was shot and killed by a deputy U. S. marshal at Lathrop, California, last Wednesday. The shooting was the result of a personal assault which Judge Terry was making upon Justice Stephen J. Field, of the United States Supreme bench, while the latter was seated at breakfast table. Judge Terry had approached Justice Field from the rear, and slapped the justice in the face with his hand and was in the act of striking him a second time when Deputy Nagle, who had risen and warned Judge Terry to stop the attack, drew a revolver and shot the latter through the heart, killing him instantly. The deputy was acting as a body guard to Justice Field under strict orders emanating from the department of justice of Washington, to protect the person of the jurist from personal assault at all hazards. An attack had been deemed probable, owing to the frequent threats attributed to Judge Terry, owing to the latter's known temper and the fierce quarrels which had marked his public career in California. Justice Field ignored all propositions to arm himself, declaring according to his statement today, that if a Justice of the supreme court of the United States could not travel through his circuit in the performance of his judicial duties without protecting himself against assault he would accept the consequence which might result to himself. The United States marshal of the district, under authority of the department of justice, however, assigned a deputy to accompany Justice Field, and Deputy Nagle accompanied him to Los Angeles, and was at his side when Judge Terry approached and struck Justice Field. Whether Judge Terry was aware of this fact is not known. Although warned not to strike again, he had aimed a second powerful blow at Justice Field, who was still sitting in his chair, but before the blow could be delivered he fell to the floor a dead man.

Terry became infamous years ago by his murder of Senator Broderick in a so-called duel. Always regarded as a violent and dangerous man, there are few indeed who regret his death. The San Francisco Post voices public sentiment when it says "a life of violence and of bloody acts culminated at Lathrop, when an officer of the United States courts killed David S. Terry. It was an end fitting to the life. The community was not shocked by the death of this violent man. It received the news of the tragedy as something it had been looking for, and that was long overdue. The surprise was that it had not taken place sooner. His assault on Justice Field was unprovoked. It was premeditated and outrageous. Deputy Marshal Nagle did only his duty in protecting the judge. Terry simply got what he sought. This one man had been for years a variable fire-brand. He had done more to create contempt for the laws and courts than all other agencies in the state combined. He was a genius for evil, and believed that he was a law unto himself. The time had come to protect our tribunals, and it was fitting that David S. Terry should fall under the new order of things. He fully merited his fate."

Three separate articles will be submitted to vote at the same time, the constitution is to be voted on, capital location, woman's suffrage, and prohibition. It is well that it is so, and the two latter questions will be settled at the election for some time to come. There is no need to argue either of these questions, as the people have long since made up their minds how to vote on them.

A Mississippi case has tried and sentenced the prize fighter John L. Sullivan to one year in the county jail for violating the laws of the state against prize fighting. The case has been appealed to the Supreme court of that state, but there is no fun in it for the sporting crowd. Several spectators of the fight were fined, and Kilrain is under bonds for trial.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer says: The action of the Republican caucus at Olympia in determining that county and local officers chosen last November shall hold under the state government through the terms for which they were elected is wise and proper. It is simply a provision for carrying out under the new condition the will of the people already expressed. It is a good thing also in that it puts a certain limitation upon politics which threaten to overthrow all other public interests during the current year. At the very least we shall have politics enough, and the elimination of the county campaign is a happy deliverance.

AN ASTONISHING CHANGE.

"My dear madam, I never saw you looking so well, and you were so poorly." "Yes, doctor, Dr. J. J. Healy's Sarsaparilla is the greatest thing in the world for skin-diseases, nervous and debilitated women. That's the secret of my appearance." "Up to a month ago Mrs. Holden, an elderly lady, living at 510 Mason street, San Francisco, was filling in health and death so rapidly as to seriously alarm her relatives. She now writes: 'I have taken three bottles of Dr. J. J. Healy's Sarsaparilla, and it is astonishing. I am recovering my lost flesh and have not felt as well in years.'"

Walla Walla has been troubled a month or more with incendiary fires, which were laid to tramps. Last week it was ascertained the fires had been set by a lot of boys who lived in the town, 13 to 14 years old. Of course the fires will cease now, but the boys will probably continue on their route to the penitentiary.

Sec. 11 of the schedule in the new constitution says that "all district, county and precinct officers who may be in office at the time of the adoption of this constitution shall hold their respective offices until the second Monday in January A. D. 1891, and until such time as their successors may be elected and qualified, in accordance with the provisions of this constitution; and the official bonds of all such officers shall continue in full force and effect as though this constitution had not been adopted."
