MONTANA is all Democratic, excepting Congressman, Carter being elected by 1200 Republican majority.

The United States is supplying electrical machinery to Japan in large quantities. The light is growing in popularity throughout the empire.

DURING the three months ending August 31, there were exported to England 90,000 head of cattle, 40,000,000 pounds of fresh beef and 24,000,000 pounds of canned beef.

A New Democratic weekly paper has been started at Pasco. M. V. Harper and sons are the publishers. It is just what that section wanted—a live paper, and they should meet with great success.

Though King county will in all probability select one of the senators there is every reason to believe that she will select a man who will represent the whole state as well as he will the county and city.

The New York Democrats held their state convention at Syracuse last week. The platform reaffirms the doctrines of the national Democratic platform of 1888, and says: "We do not advocate free trade, but steadfastly advocate the principle of tariff reform." Cleveland's administration is indorsed.

If the Dakota tin mines shall pan out something more substantial than a speculator's bubble the next thing we shall hear of will be a high duty on tin to protect an infant industry in making of itself a great overgrown monopoly at the expense of everybody who uses tin. This is the republican method of utilizing the bounties of nature to this favored land.

Young James G. Blaine's deserted wife will enter suit for a limited divorce. "Keep my body from the Blaine's," was her constant cry when she thought she was dying. And no wonder. She had reason to dread Jingo Jim and his tribe. Considering Jim's own marriage, is it not rather strange that either he or Mrs. Jim should feel too good to take the noble but mistaken woman who married their disreputable son to their arms? The Blaines should be given the cold shoulder by every self-respecting family in the United States, if for no other reason than their reprehensible conduct toward young Mrs. Blaine, the latchet of whose shoes they are not fit to tie. —Tacoma News.

One thing that the revenue cutter Rush has brought to light is that there has been carried on in Behring sea an enormous amount of very destructive exterminating hunting among the seals and sea otter, by the English and American sailors and hunters. Not a poaching schooner has been seized that did not have on board hundreds of skins of seals and otters that had been illegally and wantonly destroyed. Add this illicit taking to the 200,000 skins that the Alaska company is authorized to take, and it will be no difficult task to calculate with reasonable accuracy the day and the hour when the seals and the otters will disappear from our waters entirely. The attitude of the United States in this matter is, therefore, in the interest of the seal and otter, while the position of the English is exactly opposite.

GOOD ADVICE.

Samuel J. Randall is a man whose Democracy and whose wisdom are both well proven, and the other day, in a letter to a meeting of Democrats in Philadelphia, he made an address pregnant with both Democracy and wisdom. Organization he declares to be the one thing needed by the Democrats in Pennsylvania. In even a stronger sense the same words may be applied to Washington. The republican majority in the state is comparatively small. In no sense is the state reliably republican. It may even be doubted whether, if the Democrats had as good organization as the republicans, they would not find themselves in the majority. With the immigration increasing at such a rapid rate no party can claim supremacy with surety, and the victory is almost certain to lie with the party which has the best organization. The Democrats of Washington should take the cue. It is worth while for the Democrats of Pennsylvania, where the republican majority is 80,000, to organize, certainly there is every reason why there should be no time lost in effecting a thorough organization.

The constitution of Washington requires that all voters shall be citizens of the United States. That is, no person of foreign birth can vote upon mere declaration of his intention to become a citizen. He can vote only upon attaining full citizenship, five years after such first declaration. It is provided, however, that all persons who were voters at the time of the adoption of the constitution shall still be electors. Under the constitution it will not be possible for political committees to grind out grists of born voters for an election near at hand, and every man of foreign birth will have to wait till he has had opportunity to know something about the duties of citizenship, before he can vote in Washington.

MASSACHUSETTS LEADS.

The Democracy of Massachusetts come out strong on the tariff question. They take an immense stride forward in the direction of free trade, as a pure and unequivocal tariff for revenue is characterized by the plutocrats. Here are the declarations on the subject, and the Democracy of the country will rally to them with courage, rejoicing that the break for liberty in trade comes from the old Bay State, where the first blood for American independence was shed:

We reaffirm our demands for free raw materials and lower duties upon the necessities of life. We believe that free wool, as provided for in the bill passed by the Democratic majority in the last house of representatives, is essential to the prosperity of the woolen industry upon which that of the wool grower is dependent, while it will afford relief to all consumers of woolen goods.

We call the particular attention of the farmers of this state, who have borne the heavy burden of high tariff taxation without any of the prosperity promised, to the relief they will receive through the reduction of custom taxes upon articles which they use or consume.

We give our hearty support to the petition of the present republican governor of this state and other leading iron and steel manufacturers of both political parties, addressed to the New England members of congress, asking for free coal and iron ore and lower duties upon pig iron, and we commend their efforts to save this important industry threatened with extinction in our section of the country through the failure to adopt tariff duties to the changes in the condition of the iron market.

We believe that New England railroads should be restrained by law, if necessary, from entering into any traffic arrangements which secure to the manufacturers of other states arbitrary and unfair advantages over our own manufacturers in transportation rates.

We demand that all materials for ship building, whether of metal or wood, be relieved from the heavy tax now imposed on them and made free of duty, to the end that American ship building may be placed in a better position to construct ships capable of competing upon the ocean with those of foreign countries.

Here are no cowardly evasions nor glittering generalities. The specific demand is made for free trade in raw materials and free ships. These demands once formulated into law, and the entire fabric of protection, with its long train of evils and despotism, will tumble into ruins.

New England will be the first to break the chains of the industrial slave and advance the banner of tariff reform.

NOT ALL THEIR OWN WAY.

It may be just as well to suggest to the republicans of Washington that in the coming congress their representatives and senators will not have it all their own way. They have a small majority, to be sure, but this majority must first obtain the consent of the minority before they can put any legislation through. It will be one of those instances in which the spirit of fair play will be essential, if it is proposed to accomplish anything.

The unseating of Democratic members who hold their certificates on small majorities or pluralities cannot be carried on arbitrarily. In the case of Montana there is some doubt whether the republicans will be permitted first to perpetrate a fraud and then to throw out the vote in order to secure the control of state and the election of United States senators.

What the republicans will undertake to do in the way of legislation is wholly a subject of conjecture.

There is evidently a strong sentiment and a growing one in their party favorable to reducing taxation upon some articles of common use and putting several raw materials on the free list. But the political bosses will be on hand, as usual, and will probably be able to hold the republicans to the pledges of the Chicago platform. It is not generally believed that there will be any decrease in taxation, nor is there much prospect of much important legislation of any kind.

KEEPING WELL TOGETHER.

The Democrats in all the states stand together in this off year and assert their fidelity to their political faith.

The party, being Democratic, believes that all legislation should be for the good of all the people, and it opposes as undemocratic and unjust, all taxation intended to lay burdens upon the masses for the benefit of a monopolistic class. It believes in tariff reform as a measure of simple justice and pressing necessity, and a year ago it said so with emphasis in its national platform.

Having a conscience as well as a conviction, the party stands by that declaration of truth in spite of the fears of the timid and the counsels of the corrupt.

In New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland, Massachusetts, Iowa, in short every state in which a Democratic convention has been held this year, the platform has reaffirmed the utterance of the National convention on this subject.

There is no "crawfishing," no cowardice, no turning backward. The party is now getting together in defense of principle and of the right of the people as against the pretensions of monopolists.

The Nagle Case.

The grand jury of San Joaquin county has presented its final report of Deputy U. S. Marshal Nagle. It says that the facts show that the killing of the late Judge Terry was intentional and deliberate violation of the constitution, and Nagle should be tried thereunder. The accused was taken from the power of the state by a process emanating from the United States circuit court. The report continues: The United States circuit court has decided that Nagle cannot be tried by the Federal court, essentially for a like want of jurisdiction from which it is fair to conclude he cannot be tried in any court.

NOTICE.

THE STATE OF WASHINGTON, Vancouver, Washington Territory, September 10th, 1889. Notice is hereby given that in compliance with the provisions of the act of Congress of June 18th, entitled "An Act for the sale of timber lands in the states of California, Oregon and Nevada, and Washington Territory," Lewis G. Gilbert of Whittier, county of Pacific, Territory of Washington has this day filed in this office his sworn statement, No. 1225, for the purchase of the N. 1/4 and E. 1/4 Sec. 12, in Township No. 12 North, Range No. 6 West, W. M., and will offer proof to show that the land sought is more valuable for its timber or stone than for agricultural purposes, and to establish his claim to said land before the Register and Receiver of this office at Vancouver, W. T., on Wednesday the 11th day of December, 1889. He names as witnesses: Sam. Kelley, David J. Schuler, Frank Crawford, Green B. Riggs, all of Whittier, Pacific county, W. T. Any person claiming adversely the above described lands is requested to file their claim in this office before said day of December, 1889. W. S. LITTLE, Register.
