Rule 2.—The rights and duties of president; adopted. On motion of J. M. Reid it was ordered that all rules be considered adopted if no amondments were offered. The reading proceeded with merely clerical amendments until rule 44 was reached, which requires the assent of a majority of all delegates elected on final vote on any constitutional proposition. Mr. Dunbar moved to so amend that a majority of those voting in each case shall be sufficient. Mr. Prosser opposed this, and declared that no constitutional proposition to the peono constitutional proposition ought to go out from this convention to the people which did not at least recive the assent of a majority of the convention, Messrs. Dunbar, Comegys and Reed spoke in favor of the amendment and Messrs. Prosect, Cosgrey and Griffitt against. The amendment was lost.

The remaining rules were read and adopted without further debate. On motion of Mr. Reed of Olympia the clerk of filears.

and that motion prevailed.

Mr. Crowley nominated Miss Belle Lampkin and Mr. Sudksdorf seconded the nomination. Mr. Gowey nominated Brad. W. Davis of Olympia, Mr. McElroy nominated J. D. Hannagan of Union City. A ballot was moved by Mr. Sullivan of Tacoma and on that motion Judge Hery called for the ayes and noes; which resulted: Ayes 50, noes 15. The ballot was accordingly had with the following result: Whole number 65, necessary 34—Lampkin 26, Hannigan 24, Davis 13, scattering 2; and there was no election.

On Sunday as the family of Henry Cochrane were going to attend services in the school house about three and a half miles north of the city, on the Farmington road, they noticed the cattle of R. D. Johnson in the corral. They thought it rather strange, and at 8 o'clock this (Monday) morning when Mr. Cochrane saw the cattle still penned up, he determined to investigate. Approaching the door he knocked twice but received no answer. He pounded a third time and in response came the voice of a child crying: "Oh, mamma!" Running around to the window he called the name of Mrs. Johnson, and receiving no reply but the piteous crying of the child, forced open the door and rushed into the house. Ascending the stairs, a horrible sight met his eyes. Lying at the head of the stairs was the body of Mr. Johnson. The hair was matted with blood, which had oozed from a bullet wound in the forehead. A revolver was lying partly under the body. On a bed close by lay the body of the boy Willie, the face blackened with powder and covered with blood from two ghastly wounds in the head. On a pallet, at the foot of the bed, was the little girl, her face also dabbled with blood from a bullet wound.

Overcome by the terrible spectacle Mr. Cochrane rushed down the stairs and out of the house to summon help. A messenger was dispatched to this city to summon the proper authorities, and the neighbors soon reached the scene of the tragedy.

On the front door was pinned the following the total. Mr. Gowey withdrew the name of Brad W. Davis. Mr. Kinnear desired to make a nomination, but objection was made. Mr. Reed of Olympia moved that Mr. Kinnear be allowed to make his nomination, but this motion was lost by a decided negative. The third ballot followed; whole number 64, necessary 34; Lampkin 35, Hannagin 28, Silvester I, and Mrs. Lampkin was declared elected. Mrs. Lampkin appeared and received the oath of office from the president. Mr. Kinnear offered the following resolution:

C. C. McCoy left yesterday for Ruby City to look after his stage line and mail contracts. Mr. McCoy informed a Review reporter that the mail route had recently been extended from Ruby to Conconully. An effort is now being made to have it further extended from Conconully to Sooyos, and from Hazeltine, on this end of the line, to Davenport, a distance of forty miles. Just why the mail route should begin at Hazeltine, forty miles from railroad communication, instead of at Davenport, is one of those things which nobody has yet been able to find out. Mr. McCoy has lately put on nine new Concord coaches and lirst-class stock, so that fast time is now made all along the line, which, notwithstanding the mail contract does not renmade all along the line, which, notwithstanding the mail contract does not render it necessary, extends from Davenport to the mines, thus affording a
