BOOKS RECEIVED

AFRICAN LAW: ADAPTATION AND DEVELOPMENT. Edited by Hilda Kuper and Leo Kuper. Berkeley: University of California Press, 1966. Pp. ix, 275. $7.50.

This volume, although presenting eleven essays dealing with development and adaptation of law in Africa, has general theoretical and practical relevance to all countries attempting to relate law to existence in the modern world.

BD FOR FREEDOM: U.S.S.R. vs. TARASOV. By C. L. Sareen. Englewood Cliffs: Prentice-Hall, Inc., 1966. Pp. vii, 199. $3.95.

This book relates the story of a Russian national who escaped from a Soviet ship while it was berthed in Calcutta, India, and who retained his freedom in a court of justice in India.

DIAGNOSIS OF THE BRAZILIAN CRISIS. By Celso Furtado. Berkeley: University of California Press, 1965. Pp. xxiv, 168. $5.00.

A controversial account of present-day Brazilian economic problems, this book was written by a Brazilian economist now exiled from his country.

ETHICAL STANDARDS OF THE ACCOUNTING PROFESSION. By John L. Carey and William O. Doherty. New York: American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, 1966. Pp. xv, 330. $5.00.

This volume, purporting to be more than just a revision of an earlier work by Mr. Carey entitled, Professional Ethics of Certified Public Accountants, takes into account recent changes in the profession's rules.

FOUNDATIONS AND GOVERNMENT. By Marion R. Freemont-Smith. New York: Russell Sage Foundation, 1965. Pp. 563. $8.50.

Placing the many facets of philanthropic foundations in their federal and state legal perspectives, the author also proposes to establish a foundation research reference point and to present material that will provide for constructive evaluation of governmental supervision.

LABOR ARBITRATION: A DISSENTING VIEW. By Paul R. Hays. New Haven: Yale University Press, 1966. Pp. vii, 118. $4.50.

The author, a judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals with twenty-three years of experience as a labor arbitrator, presents a criticism of present labor arbitration.

LAW AND SOCIAL CHANGE IN GHANA. By William B. Harvey. Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1966. Pp. xiii, 453. $10.00.

Starting with the common positivistic preoccupation with conceptual analysis and rationalization, the author explores the evolution of the legal order in Ghana proposing to study "the pattern of claims or the demands in a particular society that have shaped the positive law" and, insofar as possible, "the reciprocal effect of that law on the structure, processes and values of the society."

MR. JUSTICE MURPHY AND THE BILL OF RIGHTS. By Harold Norris. Dobbs Ferry: Oceana Publications, Inc., 1965. Pp. xxiii, 568.

The author discusses many of Mr. Justice Murphy's opinions in the area of civil liberties in hopes of encouraging increased defense of the Bill of Rights for all persons at all times.

SECURITY INTERESTS IN PERSONAL PROPERTY. By Grant Gilmore. Boston & Toronto: Little, Brown and Company, 1965. Pp. xxxiv, 651 (Vol. I); xiii, 654-1508 (Vol. II).

These volumes present a masterful and detailed analysis of Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code by a Reporter for the Code. The author's insistence on the possible relevancy of Pre-Code law is amply demonstrated by a lengthy portion on the law of personal property security prior to enactment of the Code.

WATER LAW: CASES AND COMMENTARY. By Joseph L. Sax. Boulder: Pruett Press, Inc., 1965. Pp. xix, 442. Paperbound (preliminary edition).

The author presents a systematic study of the legal doctrines in the field of water law with emphasis on the western United States.
