FOREWORD

Jacob Walker[†]

The staff of the Washington International Law Journal presents the third installment of Volume 32. Until recently, the Washington International Law Journal was the Pacific Rim Law & Policy Journal and was limited to the Pacific Rim and related law and policy. The Journal's scope expanded in Volume 24 to include all international, foreign, and comparative law topics. This issue seeks to further implement this expansion with articles and comments addressing a wide range of international and foreign law topics.

In Volume 32, Issue 3, readers will explore a range of topics related to current legal issues in Afghanistan. Topics will range from Professors Qadam Shah & Rosenbaum's analysis on foreign aid development in Afghanistan. Dr. Haroun Rahimi & Professor Mahir Hazim's analysis of the legal status of the Taliban's Regime. Judge Fahim Sirat's analysis on the Anti-Corruption Justice Center in Afghanistan. The issue concludes with translations of the Afghanistan Constitution provided by Professor Clark Lombardi & Dr. Shamshad Pasarlay.

The Washington International Law Journal relies on the support of scholars, donors, and the University of Washington to publish legal scholarship at the forefront of international law. On behalf of the Volume 32 Executive Board, I would like to thank University of Washington School of Law's Professor Scott Schumacher and Associate Dean Mary Hotchkiss for their continued support of the Journal. I would also like to thank Professors Dongsheng Zang and Clark Lombardi for their guidance over the course of this year, especially for providing invaluable insight into improving our editing processes and connection with the law school.

We are proud to present our readers with this compilation of foreign and international law scholarship. With that, we present the third issue of Volume 32.

[†] Jacob Walker is the Editor-in-Chief of the Washington International Law Journal. He is a J.D. candidate at the University of Washington School of Law.
