Statement of Facts

Your Friend, the Washington Lawyer, Works Hard and Plays Occasionally; Here He Is:

First District:

The Seattle Bar Association has instituted a Speakers Bureau under J. ORRIN VINING. Questionnaires were mailed to members of the Seattle Bar requesting them to list with the bureau their names and suggested topics of general public interest on which they were qualified to make public addresses. The bureau then notified various service clubs and other groups that it was able to furnish speakers and, pursuant to requests from such groups, has been supplying speakers for several months. During this period of time the bureau has supplied speakers for approximately thirty-five engagements. The Seattle press has warmly endorsed the project as a constructive enterprise of public education. Topics of some of the speeches have been: Advantages of Making a Will; Federal Wage and Hour Law; Liability of Parents for Acts of Minor Children; Rights of Married Women; European vs. American Criminal Justice; and the Social Security Law.

In January the Seattle Bar Association began the organization of a legal aid bureau, to be financed by voluntary contributions from members of the Seattle Bar Association. The plan calls for the maintenance of an office in charge of a competent salaried attorney to handle these matters with such outside assistance as may be offered. The plan, if it materializes, will render unnecessary any action by the King County commissioners under the powers conferred by House Bill 30, the Legal Aid bill passed by the 1939 legislature, providing for the establishment of county-financed legal aid bureaus in certain counties if the necessity is found to exist. MR. FRANK P. HELSELL is chairman of the Seattle committee. Pending the consummation of the committee's program, requests for legal aid on behalf of charity cases, referred by relief agencies to the office of the Seattle Bar Association, are being in turn referred to individual lawyers who have expressed their willingness to act.
