IEN-L, WaU-L

The author, a professor of the civil law, objectively analyzes the relationship of modern ownership, to nonmodern (feudal) social relations, specifically in the rural communities.
CtY-L, IEN-L, WaU-L

The author believes that Japanese lawyers, long under the influence of German scholars, must develop a scientific practical jurisprudence and establish the basis for just and reasonable legislation and interpretation. The book contains four treatises dealing with concrete problems.
IEN-L, WaU-L

The base of Japanese society is the family system, here lies the archaic, feudal, precapitalistic character peculiar to Japan. The author analyzes the problem, showing how tenaciously the system exists in the old Japanese mores.
WaU-L

The author is Japan’s most earnest advocate of educational punishment. He treats the reforms in the Japanese criminal law under the new constitution, emphasizes the principle of educational punishment by criticizing that of retaliation.

Kubo, Iwataro (Professor, Tokyo Commercial University) Kokusai shihō gairon (Outline of international private law) rev ed. Tokyo Ganshodo, 1949 360 yen.

One of the very few Japanese books on the subject. Supplement contains a bibliography of Japanese works on conflicts.

IEN-L, WaU-L

The author is Japan's foremost authority on criminal law. His earlier Criminal law of Japan was written for scholars, in this book he has revised his style so that the principles of criminal law can be understood by beginning students. These lectures, citing cases, make the most authoritative text on criminal law published since the new constitution.
