ANNUAL MEETING

EDITOR'S NOTE

The annual meeting of the Washington State Bar Association held last September at Yakima has been declared by many to have been one of the most successful we have held for some time.

Space does not permit the publishing here of a complete report of the proceedings, and it is, therefore, my purpose to present here the features of interest to the Bench and the Bar with as much completeness as possible, eliminating by necessity features of less preservative value, and the interesting inquiries and discussion following the various committee reports.

It has been, however, illuminating to read the reporters' complete record, especially that in reference to the reports, discussions, and resolutions relating to the new legislative creation—the Revised Code of Washington, and to reflect our keen interest, but individual inability, in connection with the creation and preparation of the tool necessary for our work and the administration of justice, and the necessity of the Association and the Legislature taking active steps to provide proper, satisfactory and complete tools.

The reports herein contained are published in chronological order as received at the convention.
